Description

This oil on panel, signed Gilbert, depicts a maritime scene of great tenderness, imbued with realism and poetry. In the center, a sailboat with its sail fully unfurled glides across a calm sea; its human figures, delicately sketched, suggest a tranquil, almost contemplative activity. Around it, other boats dot the horizon, creating a harmonious visual rhythm that guides the eye toward a coastal town bathed in light. Other sailboats stand out against a partly cloudy sky where the light plays in delicate shades. The clouds, rendered with a soft touch, lend depth and atmosphere, as if the painter had sought to capture a moment suspended between work and serenity. In the foreground, a few figures stand on the shore, adding a human dimension to the composition. Their discreet presence reinforces the impression of an authentic maritime daily life--unpretentious, yet full of life. The work is enhanced by a richly carved gilded frame, whose floral and geometric motifs lend the painting a classic and refined air. This frame highlights the artist's soft color palette, composed of yellows, soft grays, weathered greens, and slightly veiled blues.Period: Late 19th centuryPainting and frame in fine conditionDimensions:Height: 36 cmWidth: 54 cmDepth: 5 cmReference 727V
