Description

Oil on canvas (not re-stretched), on its original stretcher. Viewing dimensions: 80 x 63.5 cm. Frame dimensions: 98 x 82 cm. Presented in its period carved and gilded wooden frame. Portrait of a man by Jean-Baptiste Oudry, circa 1715-1720. The influence of his master, Nicolas de Largillierre, is clearly evident in this work. This portrait of a man posing in a three-quarter view to the right, with his face turned slightly toward the viewer, is a composition frequently found in the work of Jean-Baptiste Oudry, set against an architectural background. This unidentified man stands before a wall, with a pilaster on the right, while a large portion of the left background is occupied by a red background. In its treatment, this portrait can be compared to a Portrait of a Man (current
