Description

A remarkable piece of jewelry from the 1980s, combining the brilliance of diamonds with the intense color of an emerald. This elegant 18-karat white gold (750/1000) ring features an oval-cut emerald at its center, whose luminous green contrasts with the whiteness of the precious metal and the sparkle of the diamonds. Its architectural setting is distinguished by a generous band with split shoulders, entirely accented with pavé-set diamonds. The openwork lines lend lightness and movement to a decidedly sculptural composition. The emerald, secured by a prong setting, takes center stage in this design. Its vivid, deep color interacts with the brilliance of the diamonds, creating a particularly captivating interplay of contrasts. Characteristic of 1980s jewelry, this creation combines bold volumes,
