Description

18 Karat Gold Ruby and Diamond Floral Bow Earrings
A charming and highly decorative pair of 18-karat multi-tone gold ruby and diamond floral spray earrings, designed as romantic flower bouquets tied with diamond-set ribbon bows. Substantial in both scale and construction, the earrings are crafted principally from 18-karat yellow and white gold, with the warm yellow gold displaying a subtle rose-toned hue. Their sculptural, three-dimensional construction gives the pair considerable presence when worn. Each earring is composed as a stylised floral bouquet. At the top are three individual flower heads, each centred by a claw-set old-cut ruby and surrounded by finely modelled gold petals. Slender polished gold stems descend beneath the flowers, creating the appearance of a hand-tied spray. Across the centre sits an elegant white gold ribbon bow, its sweeping loops and tails set with graduated diamonds. Further polished gold ribbon elements curve around the composition, producing an attractive contrast between the warm gold framework and the brilliant white diamond-set surfaces. The pair is set with approximately 48 graduating diamonds, comprising eight-cut and round brilliant-cut stones ranging from approximately 0.001 to 0.05 carat each. The combination of diamond cuts adds texture and sparkle while complementing the rich red colour of the rubies. The reverse reveals the quality and complexity of the construction, with polished solid gold stems supporting the individual floral elements. The earrings are fitted with practical post and omega clip fittings, providing additional security and support for their substantial 18-gram combined weight. The fittings are clearly stamped "18K" and ".750", confirming 18-karat gold fineness. There are no official assay office hallmarks. Measuring approximately 3 x 2 cm (1.18 x 0.79 inches) each and weighing an impressive 18 grams combined, these are substantial statement earrings with an elegant and unmistakably luxurious appearance.
