Description

An elegant, low chest of drawers with four drawers, dating from the 1970s, combining wenge veneer with ivory-white surfaces. This piece stands out for its particularly striking geometric design, which plays on the contrast between the expressive grain of the wenge and the understated simplicity of the light-colored fronts. The four drawers, arranged in two rows, are adorned with large circular wooden handles, which give the piece its graphic character. The structure rests on two wenge-veneered side panels, forming a continuous base with architectural lines. The top is clad in white lacquered glass panels, providing a luminous and refined finish. Period: 1970s Materials: wenge veneer, wood, lacquered glass Dimensions: H. 60 × W. 110 × D. 45 cm Place of acquisition:
