Description

Large ewer and its stand in polychrome earthenware - Nevers Émile Georges -Decorated with putti and winged dragons A very beautiful and original ewer and its base in polychrome earthenware, consisting of a central vase with two handles featuring winged dragons, resting on a large, richly decorated circular base. This particularly decorative piece stands out for the vibrancy of its colors and the richness of its ornamentation, in the spirit of the great Italian Renaissance faience.The central vase, baluster-shaped, features a delightful hand-painted design depicting a winged cherub, surrounded by landscapes and vegetation.The two handles, spectacular in their design, take the form of fantastical winged dragons with sinuous bodies, rendered in shades of turquoise, yellow,
