Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Description

Chatelaine scent bottle made of cylindrical white opaline glass. Encased at the top and base with intricate openwork gilded brass mounts in the Neo-Gothic "Cathedral" style, featuring pointed arches and foliage scrolls. The exposed middle section displays a small applied silver figure of a draped saintly character. Fitted with a hinged gilded cap heavily chased with rococo scrolls and crowned with an ornate finial. France (Palais-Royal workshops), Restauration / Charles X period (circa 1820-1830). H_12.5 cm D_2.5 cm. Very good overall condition. Pocket scent bottles with Troubadour and Neo-Gothic architectural metal casing were quintessential luxury accessories during the French Romantic era under Charles X. The delicate openwork metalwork paired with milky white opaline glass
