Description

A luminous clock made of bronze and gilded brass, inlaid with a slice of agate and set in a brass base. Decorated with an owl perched on a branch. Attributed to Richard and Isabelle Faure (in collaboration with Atelier Grifs / Jacques Duval-Brasseur or Henri Fernandez, emblematic of the 1960s-1970s). In very good condition / In working order Circa 1960-70 Dimensions: H 42 L 38 D 20 cm In the 1980s, Honoré Paris, founded by Hubert Deniau, Richard, and Isabelle Faure on Rue des Rosiers in Saint-Ouen, produced monumental decorative objects--often illuminated--and furniture inspired by flora and fauna. These sculptures, made of welded brass plates with a golden patina, are combined with mineral elements such as amethyst geodes, agate slices, rock crystal, or white coral
