Description

A large and beautiful painting from the 1930s-1940s depicting a sensual young woman with bare breasts, holding a bouquet of violets... The work is signed by Emeric Gomery (1902-1969), an outstanding artist to whom the Bénézit art encyclopedia devotes a substantial chapter and about whom information can be found online...Of Franco-Hungarian origin, he studied at the Academy of Fine Arts in Budapest, and it was during his studies there that he was taught by the famous József Rippl-Rónai... Note: Émeric Gomery was active from the 1930s through the mid-20th century: he adopted quite varied styles, ranging from classical figurative art to more modern and even semi-abstract compositions: in the painting presented here, one senses a rather Art Deco atmosphere that is
