Description

A beautiful decorative ceramic wall plate, known as "barbotine de Vallauris," circa 1950.Diameter: 28 cm An iconic piece of French Riviera (Côte d'Azur) craftsmanship, characterized by its colorful, trompe-l'oeil relief decoration on a black glazed ceramic background. The composition features meticulously modeled marine and Provençal elements: a scorpionfish, a red mullet, a whole lemon, a clove of garlic, a red starfish, and green seaweed.This type of artwork, which was very popular in the postwar era, is linked to the general public's discovery of the French Riviera, as it was frequented by prominent figures from the arts, film, and business during that period.If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to ask--we're here to help._____
