Description

A high-quality liquor cabinet, crafted in the tradition of French decorative arts in the Napoleon III style. The structure is crafted from gilded bronze, richly adorned with finely chiseled relief decorations featuring acanthus leaves, classical friezes, and balanced architectural profiles. The design forms a glass-enclosed case with beveled glass panels, creating a refined play of light and highlighting the decorative character of the piece. The interior is fitted with a complete liqueur set, comprising four crystal decanters with their stoppers and sixteen cut crystal liqueur glasses in two different designs, crafted from faceted clear crystal. A central gilded bronze stand holds the glasses, forming a strictly symmetrical composition characteristic of formal parlor pieces of the period. The door is equipped
