Description

A charming armchair with a high seat and short backrest, also known as an "armchair," in the Louis XIII style, made of solid walnut and dating from the 19th century. This chair is particularly interesting due to its compact proportions; it rests on four legs connected by an H-shaped brace, as well as a high front crossbar, all beautifully turned into balusters. The armrests and armrest supports feature the same craftsmanship. The upholstery on our armchair is original and in very good condition. It is firm and comfortable; the backrest and seat are covered in a lovely havana-colored leather that has acquired, over time, a beautiful patina with some darker shades. Beautiful studded finish throughout. This chair can be used as an office chair. Please note: there are a few minor, insignificant chips on the
