Description

A magnificent, large solid oak farmhouse table dating from the very early 20th century, with generous proportions and authentic charm. This beautiful antique table immediately captivates with its superb 220-cm-long solid oak tabletop, featuring a magnificent patina with warm tones and beautiful grain. Its top features a slight natural crack running along the grain of the wood, as well as lovely signs of age that fully contribute to its authenticity and give it all the charm of the large farmhouse tables of yesteryear. It rests on four beautiful turned legs, joined by a long oak crossbar, forming a particularly elegant base characteristic of antique rustic furniture. At one end, it features an original drawer adorned with an antique metal ring handle--a detail that is as practical as it is decorative. Measuring 2.20
