Description

Large Opaline Glass Vase with Bird and Blackberry Decoration -- Circa 1880-1900
Elegant milky-white opaline glass vase with an elongated ovoid body, rounded shoulders and a straight neck outlined with a fine dark rim. The painted polychrome decoration depicts a black-and-white bird perched on a bramble branch bearing blackberries. Green and purple foliage, long slender leaves and soft blue-green plant silhouettes form a continuous design extending around the vase. The asymmetrical composition and natural motifs reflect the Japonisme taste of the late 19th century. The decoration bears a painted monogram, apparently reading "G. H." The decorator and manufacturer remain unidentified. No visible maker's mark beneath the base. Period: late 19th
