Description

Rare candy dish on a small enameled glass saucer by Damon and Delente, from the "Au vase étrusque" store, made by Daum, circa 1890. A beautiful piece of ribbed glassware, finely enameled with a design of scrolls and multicolored flowers. The noble origin of the glassware is easily recognizable, as Louis Damon commissioned his glass pieces--notably from Daum--to decorate them himself afterward. Their shop, "Au vase étrusque," was located on Boulevard Malsherbes in Paris between 1880 and 1900. A beautiful melon-shaped vase with a central flower and a decorative frieze. Very good condition, 18 cm in diameter; the signature is still visible but partially erased (see photo); one can still clearly read "Damon et Delente, Boulevard Malsherbes," circa 1890. An antique, rare piece,
