Description

American Art Nouveau-style water jug made of solid sterling silver, with a capacity of 5 pints. Manufacturer: Gorham Manufacturing Company, Providence, Rhode Island, United States. Date of manufacture: 1900. Weight: 848 g. The water jug features a classic baluster form resting on a spreading foot, featuring an elegant, elongated pouring spout and a beautifully curved loop handle. The body and neck are masterfully chased in the Art Nouveau style, showcasing flowing organic lines, undulating repoussé panels, and delicate stylized floral buds and scrolls. The interior remains bright and clean. This is an exceptional, highly collectible example of American silver craft from the golden era of the early 1900s. Marks & Hallmarks: The underside is fully and crisply marked with the Gorham
