Description

An impressive solid silver vase resting on a circular, fluted pedestal decorated with radiating fluting. The body, ovoid in shape and significantly bulging, has a smooth, polished surface, accented at its lower part by a leaf-motif frieze in relief. It extends into a long, flared neck, adorned with deep vertical fluting that gradually widens toward the shoulder. The neck is punctuated by cascading foliage and applied plant motifs, beginning below the upper rim and ending with foliage ornaments. At the junction of the neck and the body, bouquets of leaves, flowers, and fruits in relief accentuate the shoulders and highlight the vase's architectural lines. The entire piece rests on a circular, fluted base, edged with concentric moldings. This vase, inspired by Neoclassical design in the Louis XVI style, is
