Description

A charming little sloped-top writing desk in the Louis XV style, resting on four curved legs topped with gilded bronze finials. This writing desk, featuring marquetry in satinwood and amaranth veneers and a poly-lobed shape, opens at the front to reveal four drawers in the lower section and a drop-down panel that reveals a compartment with four drawers. This freestanding piece, with its open sides, is stamped "MIGEON." Original gilded bronze. Period brushed iron drawer pulls finished with gilded bronze ornaments; all five locks are period pieces, and fortunately, the original key has been preserved. Length: 82.5 cm Height: 83 cm Depth: 44 cm References: 18th-Century French Furniture by Pierre Kjellberg Dictionary of 18th-Century Cabinetmakers and Carpenters. Pages 570-578.
