Description

A major historical work published in the 19th century. Its full title is Historical, Critical, and Apologetic Documents Concerning the Society of Jesus. The first volume was published in 1827, and the work consists of two volumes (published between 1827 and 1828). It is a collection of texts, memoirs, and supporting documents intended to defend and trace the history of the Jesuit Order (the Society of Jesus) . Jacques-Benjamin Saint-Victor's work went through several printings and successive supplements. Although the main original edition initially comprised two volumes (published in 1827 and 1828), a third volume (supplement) was published in 1830 by the same publisher, Chez Mlle Carié de la Charie. This copy bears the ex-libris stamp of Marquis A.T. du Prat

(Antoine-Théodore du Prat, 1775-1855), a renowned bibliophile and descendant of the Chancellor to Francis I. An exceptional provenance that attests to the quality and condition of this set. This stamp (known as a mark of provenance or a stamped ex-libris) serves as historical evidence. It signifies that these books belonged to the private library of Marquis Antoine-Théodore du Prat. Marquis Antoine-Théodore du Prat (1775-1855) was a French aristocrat and a direct descendant of the famous Chancellor Antoine Duprat (the all-powerful minister of Francis I). The Marquis was a scholar and a passionate collector. He spent much of his life rebuilding the family library and collecting high-caliber religious, historical, and literary works. His trademark: To mark his ownership, he had his name stamp or coat of arms affixed to the title pages or endpapers of his books. Good used condition, a few stained pages; additional photos or a WhatsApp video can be provided upon request.
