Description

PAIR OF LOUIS XVI-PERIOD WALL SCONCES - LATE 18TH CENTURY
Finely chiseled and gilded bronze - With five light arms
An elegant and decorative pair of Louis XVI-era wall sconces, dating from the late 18th century, crafted from finely chiseled and gilded bronze, featuring rich ornamentation characteristic of the Neoclassical style. Each of these wall sconces features five light arms, composed of leafy branches with harmonious curves, embellished with acanthus leaves and delicately chiseled plant motifs. The particularly refined central shaft is adorned with a satyr's mask, accompanied by decorative trophies and topped with an elegant ribbon bow, emblematic of the Louis XVI style. The lower section is finished with a delicate decoration of vine
