Description

Antoine Jean-Baptiste THOMAS (1791-1834) - Self-portrait of the painter and family portrait - Romantic period, circa 1820-1830 Oil on canvas from the first third of the 19th century, attributed to Antoine Jean-Baptiste Thomas, a French painter who won the First Grand Prix de Rome in 1816. Composition depicting a painter seated before his easel, holding his palette, looking at the viewer. On the left is a young woman accompanied by a child, gathered in an intimate family scene. The composition evokes a self-portrait of the artist with his family, in the spirit of Romantic portraiture. A painting with delicate skin tones, muted hues, and subtle contrasts. Original canvas showing some old restorations. Handwritten inscription "Painted by J. B. Thomas" on the reverse and an old label
