Description

Manufacturing Details and Characteristics

Structure: The body is made of carved, hollow wood, a traditional technique that lightens the weight of carousel figures while preventing the wood from splitting too deeply due to changes in climate. Finish and Ornaments: It retains its original polychrome finish or an antique patina from previous use, featuring shades of red, blue, and cream. The mane is carved from a single block with lovely waves, while the tail is trimmed with real horsehair. The eyes are made of sulfide (glass), which gives the gaze great expressiveness. Condition: The object has a lovely vintage look, "as-is." There are visible cracks from use (particularly around the neck and at the base of the legs), areas where paint is missing, and traces of previous restorations (visible at the
