Description

A charming French Louis Philippe side table dating from the mid-19th century, showcasing the elegant restraint and practical design associated with the Louis Philippe period. Crafted in richly figured wood with a warm, deep patina, this compact table combines functionality with refined craftsmanship. The rectangular case features two drawers, including an upper hinged compartment that opens to reveal a fitted interior with divided sections, originally intended for storing sewing materials, writing implements, or personal items. The drawer fronts display attractive flame mahogany figuring and are fitted with brass ring pulls that complement the table's understated elegance. Supported by distinctive bobbin-turned twin legs on each side, the table is joined by a beautifully turned stretcher that reinforces the structure while adding decorative interest. Sledge feet complete the design, lending both stability and a graceful silhouette. Its compact dimensions and practical storage make it an ideal side table, work table, sewing table, or bedside piece, equally suited to traditional interiors and eclectic contemporary settings. Condition: Good antique condition with normal signs of age and use. The wood retains a rich patina acquired over time. Minor wear consistent with age contributes to the character of the piece.
