Description

A large French three-door display cabinet made in the late 19th century in the Louis XV style, constituting a remarkable example of art furniture from the historicist period. The piece is crafted from mahogany and rests on elegant, curved cabriole legs. The center and side doors are entirely glazed, offering a clear view of the interior, which is fitted with glass shelves designed for displaying collections. The lower portion of the front is decorated with painted panels depicting romantic scenes inspired by 18th-century French painting, framed by refined borders of finely chiseled and gilded bronze. The crown is dominated by a spectacular openwork cartouche in gilded bronze, richly adorned with rocaille motifs. Delicate gilded bronze frames and appliqués emphasize the piece's graceful
