Description

Wall mirror with gilded metal flowers attributed to Maison Jansen, circa 1970. Octagonal wall mirror with a beveled edge, adorned with an elaborate floral motif in patinated gilded metal. The composition consists of three large, blooming flowers accompanied by stylized foliage and stems reminiscent of bamboo, in the spirit of the naturalistic and exotic designs favored by Maison Jansen during the 1960s and 1970s. An integrated lighting system is concealed behind the botanical motif, highlighting the metal's form and creating a decorative lighting effect. This piece exemplifies the French design aesthetic of the era, characterized by organic forms and gilded finishes inspired by the Hollywood Regency style. Details: Patinated gold-plated metal, beveled mirror, and integrated lighting--attributed
