Description

A beautiful antique painting signed by V. Brugairolles, depicting a Dutch landscape at dusk, featuring sailboats on a canal, traditional houses, and the warm reflections of the setting sun on the water. The composition is characterized by a peaceful atmosphere, a delicate color palette blending blues, ochres, and browns, and a beautiful rendering of light on the water. A French painter of the late 19th century Victor Brugairolles (1869-1936) was a French painter known for his landscapes and seascapes. Trained under Fernand Cormon in Paris, he was particularly interested in harbors, rivers, and landscapes bathed in light. He exhibited at the Salon des Artistes Français beginning in 1894 and also participated in the Salon d'Automne starting in 1907. The subject of this work--with its canals and sailboats--is part of
