Description

Oil on canvas, signed "J.G. Carrère" in the lower right corner, depicting the picturesque village of Argentat-sur-Dordogne along the riverbank. Jean-Gérard Carrère (1922-2015) A young graduate of the École des Beaux-Arts in Bordeaux, where he studied under Roganeau, Jean-Gérard Carrère chose to teach drawing at a very early age. A member of the Salon des Artistes Français beginning in 1952, he held numerous solo exhibitions in Paris, London, and Bordeaux, as well as group exhibitions in Saint-Raphaël, Paris, Bordeaux, and Collioure, where he met Picasso in 1954. During his many travels, he painted the old quarters of Dutch cities, as well as German, Scandinavian, and Spanish landscapes. He was often inspired by his region, his hometown of Bordeaux, and the
