Description

Oil on canvas. Signed lower right. On the reverse, a label from the Ponte Art Gallery bearing the title and date of the work.From the Campari corporate collection.The artistic career of Attilio Rossi--who was also an important graphic artist and cultural promoter--spanned from abstract art to hyperrealism, eventually placing him at the forefront of the most advanced figurative art. In the final period of his artistic career--to which the work presented here belongs--his docks, still lifes, and self-portraits gave way to a major cycle of metaphysical painting, as in this work, in which the Milky Way crosses the picture plane horizontally, entering an architectural structure where a still life featuring pomegranates stands out, thus becoming a concrete and tangible part of everyday life.Work presented in a
