Description

An elegant mid-19th-century French secrétaire, crafted from fine rosewood and characterized by a refined Transition-style design. The upper section is topped by an elegant marble top, while the front features several drawers and a large central drop-down panel. The drop-down panel is the true centerpiece of the piece: at its center is a splendid oval panel decorated with a refined inlay depicting a landscape with architecture and a castle, crafted from various types of wood to achieve subtle shades and depth of color. The composition is framed by rich geometric decoration that further enhances the panel. Origin: France Period: mid-1800s Style: Transition Dimensions: 86x37x148h cm
