Iris-glazed Stoneware Bowl With Three Handles - Art Nouveau Period, Circa 1900

240 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Sandstone

Diameter : 28cm

Height : 7cm

Description

An elegant Art Nouveau-style glazed stoneware bowl with three handles, likely made in the early 20th century.This beautiful decorative piece is distinguished by its shallow circular shape, adorned with three curved handles harmoniously arranged around its rim.It features a remarkable iridescent glaze with rich shades of deep blue, emerald green, golden yellow, and bronze brown, offering subtle metallic highlights that shift with the light.The glaze runs and color variations reflect an interesting application of the glaze, particularly characteristic of the decorative experiments of the Art Nouveau period.Its elegant silhouette and generous proportions make it a beautiful decorative piece, suitable for both a collection of antique ceramics and a contemporary interior. Marked on the base,

Dealer

GRFAntiquités
Généraliste
Mobile : 0628589727

1 rue des 2 ponts
Bacouel-sur-Selle 80460

notably with the inscription "GRÈS." Manufacturer unidentified. Estimated date: early 20th century, circa 1900-1925. Dimensions: Diameter: 28 cmHeight: 7 cm Beautiful decorative presence and captivating iridescent effects.Shipping within Metropolitan France: 70EUR.Contact us for more information.