Description

Saint Joseph with a Fleur-de-lis, made of Parisian porcelain with white and gold glaze, 19th centuryCreated in the 19th century in France at the Parisian porcelain factories, this sculpture pays homage to Saint Joseph, husband of the Virgin Mary, holding a fleur-de-lis.Since the art of fine porcelain had not yet been fully mastered in France, it was in the 19th century that the field saw its greatest advances and innovations, as exemplified here by this piece, which today seems commonplace to us but was, in its time, a true masterpiece.Entirely hand-sculpted and hand-painted, this Saint Joseph is covered in 18k gold-leaf enamel in shades of white and beige, giving the piece a realistic and moving quality. It is in very good overall condition, ideal for a collection of religious porcelain figurines.Fast
