Description

Beautiful ivory mortar, turned and carved, resting on a circular, fluted pedestal. Slightly flared in shape, the body features a smooth surface that highlights the natural grain of the ivory and its beautiful antique patina. The lower section is adorned with a wide circular frieze carved in relief, composed of veined leaves arranged vertically and symmetrically in an elegant neoclassical-inspired design. The piece rests on a circular stepped base, accented with concentric moldings. A beautiful object of great simplicity and remarkable craftsmanship, made in Goa in the late 18th to early 19th century. Dimensions: Height: 21 cm Maximum diameter at the opening: 12.3 cm Condition: very good condition with a beautiful antique patina, featuring the fine natural crackling typical of
