Description

A small Louis XVI-style console table in mahogany with brass inlays, resting on four fluted legs joined by a crossbar. Featuring a single drawer along the base, it is topped with its original Carrara marble top, framed by an openwork gallery. Dating from the late 19th century or very early 20th century (around 1900), its solid wood back panels are a clear sign of high-quality cabinetmaking. We may offer buyers delivery within mainland France for EUR80, including insurance.
