Description

"T" 3LC chairs in black leather and chrome-plated metal, designed by D. Kelly and W. Katavolos for Laverne International. These chairs feature a tripod base in chrome-plated and black metal, paired with a black leather seat. A superb design featuring a unique technique for attaching the leather to the frame. The leather has developed a beautiful patina. 1960s - United States In 1952, William Katavolos, in collaboration with Douglas Kelley and Ross Littell, designed the iconic "T" chair with a suspended backrest, model number 3LC, as part of Laverne International's "New Furniture" sculptural series. Concealed screws secure the leather seat to a frame composed of chrome-plated steel tubes and flat, black-lacquered steel profiles, creating a striking
