Description

A charming Renaissance-style cabinet consisting of a lower credenza with disc-shaped legs, wide moldings, and a top surmounted by a single-door display cabinet, as well as one drawer in the middle section with a working key and lock. The lower section features a turned column. All carved elements--including the cornice and moldings--are handmade, giving it a soft, natural look rather than a stiff one. It is very elegant, beautifully proportioned, and highly decorative. Pick up at the store or arrange for delivery if you're not too far away. Please note: a small piece of molding is missing.
