Description

A carved marble medallion depicting a bust of Christ in profile, facing to the right, executed in pronounced relief in the style of a cameo.The face, with its regular features, stands out against a simple background. Long, wavy hair falls over the shoulders, while a curly beard frames the face. The care taken with the strands of hair, the details of the beard, and the modeling of the profile give this depiction a sensitive and contemplative presence.A flowing drape envelops the bust and follows the curve of the medallion, emphasizing the composition's balance.The cream hue of the marble, nuanced by a patina and ancient deposits, accentuates the depth of the relief.Proposed date: late 17th century - early 18th century.Condition: a chip on the left edge, visible in the photographs; minor peripheral
