sub-dials occupy the central and lower portions of the dial, while the large double-window date appears at 12 o'clock.The crown, set with a blue cabochon, is flanked by the chronograph pushers. The transparent case back reveals the movement and its openworked oscillating weight, decorated with Cartier motifs.Technique and MaterialsThe case and the signature folding clasp are crafted from 18-karat white gold, bearing 750 hallmarks. The self-winding mechanical movement provides timekeeping, chronograph, and date functions. A black alligator leather strap completes this high-end timepiece, characterized by the combination of white gold, a complication movement, and an intricately crafted dial.DateEarly 21st century, prior to May 22, 2015, the date of the documented service. The exact year of manufacture is not specified in the preserved documents.ConditionThe watch is in good condition and fully functional, including the chronograph and date change. Signs of wear are visible on the metal surfaces, particularly the clasp, and on the lining of the strap. The 2015 Cartier service included a complete overhaul, polishing, and renewal of the rhodium plating. A semi-matte black alligator strap is also mentioned.Intended Use and PurposeIntended for daily wear or for a collection of designer watches, it comes with its Cartier case, outer box, two instruction booklets, a DVD, a second Cartier strap, and service documentation. The original manufacturer's warranty is not included.The asking price is more than EUR2,500 lower than the cheapest offer found for this same model among the listings reviewed in our comparison.Dimensionscase width - 32 mmcase length - 52 mm
