Description

Description :This French school oil painting on canvas, signed H. Stauder at the lower left, depicts a lively flower market beneath tall, leafy trees. Associated with the Provençal school of the 20th century, H. Stauder is recorded in auction catalogues with views of Marseille and market scenes. Here, green and cream umbrellas shelter the stalls, while shoppers and vendors bring movement and character to the composition.In the foreground, abundant bouquets and baskets create a colourful focal point. The painting is distinguished by its richly textured surface, with thickly applied paint and pronounced impasto. Expressive strokes define the foliage, clothing and floral arrangements, giving the scene a strong sense of spontaneity.Deep greens, blues and violet shadows contrast with warm ochres, creamy whites and touches of vivid red. Scattered sunlight across the pavement and elongated shadows evoke the warmth of an outdoor market in southern France, although the precise location remains unidentified.The painting is presented in a moulded wooden frame with a gold finish that complements its warm palette. Visible craquelure across the painted surface and minor wear to the frame contribute to its aged appearance.Dimensions including frame:H : 43 cm (16.93 in) L : 51 cm (20.08 in) P : 3 cm (1.18 in)
