Description

A charming French display cabinet in the Provençal style, dating from the early 19th century and crafted from cherry wood. The piece features a slender frame topped by a molded upper cornice and characterized by two front doors with carved lower panels and glass panels in the upper section. The glass panes are framed by molded profiles featuring delicate, undulating motifs typical of the Provençal style. The decorated metal grilles add a refined ornamental detail, while the base features a contoured, undulating design and the legs are slightly curved in a scroll shape. The interior features shelves.
