Antique Blown-glass Decanter With A Ring-shaped Body, Featuring Gold And Enamel Decoration

230 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Height : 22 cm

Description

An elegant and original antique carafe made of clear blown glass, featuring a remarkable ring-shaped form with a central opening, resting on a circular base and topped by a flared neck with a spout. The body is richly decorated with a network of interlaced cross-hatches, enhanced by fine gilding and small raised gold dots. The neck features a delicate frieze of floral and geometric motifs, while the circular base is adorned with stylized foliage and scrolls, highlighted by gold fillets. An elegantly curved handle, hot-applied, completes this particularly decorative composition. The sides also feature a geometric design of lozenges and gold dots, reflecting the care taken in the ornamentation of this piece. Antique European piece from the 19th century. Height: 22 cm.
