Description

Cardboard powder box decorated with military scenes - Louis XV period, 18th century. Cylindrical cardboard powder box from the Louis XV period, adorned with a polychrome decoration featuring 18th-century military scenes. The rim features a succession of soldiers in uniform, horsemen, men holding swords, a soldier firing a gun, a flag bearer, and a drummer. The edge of the lid is adorned with a frieze of flowers and foliage. The top features a pastoral scene animated by figures and animals in a wooded landscape. The interior, lined with a beautiful bright red, is particularly well-preserved given its age. Condition: The box has a beautiful antique patina, with some wear on the decoration and a few small chips, particularly along the edges. The colors on the lid are more faded than
