Description

A French-made tabletop frame dating from the early 20th century, crafted from brass with openwork floral motifs. The openwork extends around the entire perimeter, creating a continuous ornamental pattern that enhances the rectangular structure.The original wooden inner panel has been replaced with one made of Plexiglas. On the back, there is a shaped metal support, attached to the frame, that allows the frame to be kept upright on a surface.The object is in good condition.Dimensions: 45 × 37 × 1 cm
