Description

Decorative "Antique-style" vase in brown and gold-patinated bronze on 19th-century Griotte marbleA true gem of French craftsmanship, this decorative bowl in the neoclassical or so-called "Antique" style dates from the 19th century.The 19th century was an era of artisanal and industrial revolutions. The art world was one of the most important players in this movement, inventing new decorative objects that were more sumptuous and beautiful than their predecessors, transforming the functional into something artistically beautiful.This period saw a resurgence of the reimagined classical style, featuring noble and intricate materials such as the gilded and patinated bronze of this bowl, adorned with a classical bas-relief frieze depicting a reclining Venus and embellished with floral and Baroque
