Description

René VALETTE (1874-1956) - Pack of Dogs in the Snow A rare and beautiful watercolor depicting a group of hunting dogs gathered in a snowy winter landscape. The dogs, with their varied coats, stand out against the whiteness of the snow at the foot of bare trees, whose branches create a silent, poetic atmosphere.The artist skillfully captures the dogs' demeanor, presence, and character, while playing with delicate shades of gray, brown, and white. His mastery of watercolor lends this composition a great sense of lightness, highlighting the contrasts between the animals, the snow, and the winter vegetation.René Valette (1874-1956) is an artist renowned for his depictions of animals and scenes related to the world of hunting. Works featuring hunting dogs are particularly sought
