Description

- Oil on canvas. Original canvas. Illegible signature.- In this evocative scene from the late 19th century, imbued with the twilight sensibility characteristic of the Lluís Graner lineage, an elderly laborer eats his humble meal beneath the intimate and solitary glow of a lantern. The dense darkness enveloping the room dissolves the contours in a masterful tenebrist chiaroscuro; only the warm, artificial light illuminates, with poetic rawness, the furrows of his weary face and his hands, which hold a bowl of broth with extreme delicacy. This genre scene celebrates the silent dignity of labor and poverty through a deeply psychological and melancholic atmosphere, where the character's solitude and the masterful use of shadows capture the most human dimension of fin-de-siècle modernity.-
