Description

An elegant pair of side tables made of Cuban mahogany and gilded bronze, dating from the mid-20th century.Each features three rectangular, bowl-shaped tops--known as "cabaret" tops--whose rims emphasize the simplicity of the design. The mahogany, with its deep, warm tones, offers a beautiful contrast to the gilded bronze trim.The tops are joined by four slender cylindrical bronze columns, adorned with molded rings. Corner finials add rhythm to the contours and highlight the overall construction.Their clean lines and proportions make them suitable for use as serving tables, side tables, or end tables.The three levels provide ample display space for books, collectibles, or serving accessories.A decorative pair, combining the warmth of mahogany with the elegance of gilded
