Description

Born in Yoyogi in 1909 in Tokyo Prefecture, Noritsuna Kuroda was drawn to art under the influence of his uncle Seiki Kuroda, one of the pioneers of Western-style painting (yo-ga) in Japan. Taking refuge at home during the 1923 Great Kanto Earthquake, he discovered painting and drawing.In 1927, he began his studies at the Tokyo School of Fine Arts in the Western Painting Department, even though the rest of his family wanted him to become a civil servant. In 1932, he graduated from the Tokyo School of Fine Arts and was able to exhibit his work in official art shows. He began winning awards in 1933. Between 1940 and 1944, he served in Southeast Asia (the Philippines, Java, etc.) as a member of the Navy's press corps.Upon his return, he founded the Shinju-kai association in
