Description

An English Regency-style convex mirror, made around 1900.This round mirror features a gilded wooden frame with a black-finished inner edge and decorative spherical ornaments. At the top is a finely carved eagle, finished in black, with outstretched wings, holding a chain in its beak.The spherical glass provides a wide, reduced reflection. The design is inspired by the English Regency period of the early 19th century, during which this type of mirror was particularly popular.The mirror has a wooden back and shows signs of wear consistent with its age.Dimensions: 65H x 47.5W x 12D
