Description

- A fountain spout depicting a lion's head, a lead sculpture dating from the 20th century. - This mascarón depicts a massive lion's head captured in the midst of a roar. The powerful, feline stance is emphasized by its furrowed brows, pricked-up ears, bristling mane, and exaggeratedly open mouth--designed to allow water to flow out, revealing its fangs. As a result, the water flowing from its mouth adds to the visual power of the roar. - Dimensions - Height: 41.5 cm / Width: 49.5 cm / Depth: 15.5 cm
