

Small, Polished Stone Axe - Probably From Niger -

70 EUR

Period : Before 16th century

Condition : En l'etat

Material : Stone

Length : 9,4

Width : 4,6

Height : 3,2

Description

The body is thick, with a rounded heel and a widened tip forming a convex cutting edge. The rock is granular. The manufacture of stone axes of the Neolithic type in Niger continued until the beginning of our era. Particularly among the Tuareg, these ancient axes found just below the surface are called "thunderstones" or "stones from the sky," believed to possess protective powers.
